We've had some exciting new developments brewing here at Got Books! We've partnered with a Colorado-based company called Recycle That to collect clothing, textiles, linens, accessories, shoes and more in addition to books and media. We've just begun placing these co-branded containers with many of our existing fundraising partners and we're looking forward to getting even more out there on the ground! Our new containers (pictured here) look great and are able to accept even more types of donations, earning hosting organizations even more money!
